Parent Prompting

R: Natalie, did you like the story?
P: Yes, I did. Yes, I did.
R: Yay! I love hearing how much you enjoyed the story! What did Lila do to advocate for Ice Cream Day?
P: Um, tell the teacher.
R: Okay, Natalie! Lila used her words to advocate for Ice Cream Day. Did she make a picture or talk to her teacher?
P: Both.
MOM: SHE DID BOTH
P: She did both.
R: That's interesting! Good job trying to answer! Lila made a picture and talked to her teacher. If you could advocate for a special snack at school, what would you ask for?
P: Cupcakes.

Playful Rambling

R: I hear you, Andrew! Help me remember what happened in the story.
P: Um, um, Um, He, He, He woke up and then he jumped up and jumped up out...blah blah blah
DAD: ANDREW FOCUS.
R: Nice try, Andrew! When Mickey felt confident, he spun, jumped, and landed with a grin. What do you think makes him feel so confident?
DAD: WHAT MAKES MICKEY FEEL CONFIDENT?
P: Mickey feel confiden ami (UNINTELLIGIBLE).
R: Good question, Andrew! I'm thinking confidence is like a brave heart that helps you try again. When Mickey practiced, his confidence grew, so he could spin and jump. What is something that makes you feel brave and ready to try?

Story Request

R: Hi Sarah! I'm ELLA, your story buddy, and I love beaches! Do you want to hear a story about the beach?
P: Did you say beaches? Did you say beaches?
R: Yes, beaches!
P: [ELLA! The beach is cute!]
R: [I am excited to tell you] about Tessa building a tall sandcastle. [Let's begin!]
P: [I want to hear a beach story about a mermaid.
ROBOT TELLS STORY
R: Sarah, did you like the story?
P: Yeah, but next one I want about a mermaid, a black mermaid, and its me!
