robot: ...What's taking up most of your headspace right now?

user: that's hard to think but user: I feel relationships have been a little turbulent... people are different and interacting with people sometimes gets hard when there's conflict of interest robot: I'm sorry to hear that. Relationships can indeed be challenging at times. Is there a specific relationship or situation that's been particularly difficult for you?

user: I think just friendships with some of my friends, we took a New York trip this weekend...

user: that maybe soured our friendships robot: That sounds really tough. Conflicts of interest can definitely strain friendships. Have you had a chance to talk things through with your friends?